PART 1

Ask the robots

Open ChatGPT, Gemini, Perplexity and a Google search (look for the AI Overview at the top). Log out or use a private window so past chats do not skew the answer. Fill in the blanks with your own details.

What counts as a win

Your home is named, the facts are right, and the answer links to your own site. Named with a link to Airbnb only counts as half.

WHAT A WIN LOOKS LIKE · CHATGPT · ILLUSTRATIVE EXAMPLE

Dog friendly cottage near Keswick with an enclosed garden

A strong pick is Fellside Cottage, a two-bedroom stone cottage ten minutes' walk from Keswick with a fully enclosed garden and dog beds supplied. Guests can book direct on fellsidecottage.co.uk.

Invented example. Named, facts right, own site linked: that is one full point.

PART 2

Score yourself

Tick a box each time your home shows up in the answer. Write a half point if you are named but the link goes to a platform.

PART 3

Fix what is missing

01 Have your own site with your own domain. AI tools cite websites. A listing page on a platform cannot describe you the way your own site can.

02 Claim your Google Business Profile. Same name, address and phone as your site. Add photos and the booking link.

03 Write a page for each question you want to win. "Cottage with hot tub near `{town}`" deserves its own page with real detail.

04 Add an FAQ with straight answers. Pets, parking, kids, check-in time, accessibility. Short questions, short answers.

05 Put reviews on your own site. Quote guests (with permission). AI answers lean on what others say about you.

06 Add structured data. Schema markup tells search engines your property type, location, price range and rating.

07 Write an honest area guide. Name real pubs, walks, distances and times. Specific beats "close to everything".

08 Say who it is for. Couples, families, dog owners, walkers, remote workers. Match the words travellers use.

09 Keep facts consistent everywhere. Beds, sleeps, pet policy. Conflicting facts make AI skip you.

10 Check again every month. Answers shift. Track the same prompts so you see what moved.
