A NOTE ON NUMBERS

Every figure in this playbook is either a worked example or a general range, labelled as an estimate. Fees and rules change. Check the current terms of each platform, your payment provider and your local authority before you act on them. This is general guidance, not legal, tax or financial advice.

00 INTRODUCTION

Why direct, why now

Airbnb and Booking.com are brilliant at one thing: putting your home in front of strangers. You pay for that every time a guest books, including the guests who already know you, already love the place and would have come back anyway.

What the fee buys you

On Airbnb's host-only fee, the platform keeps about 15.5% of every booking. Across the big platforms, the combined guest and host fees on a booking typically land somewhere around 14 to 17% of its value. That money pays for discovery, payments, messaging and a review system.

What it does not buy you

The guest relationship. You usually cannot see a guest's real email address, you cannot invite them back without the platform in the middle, and a change to the search algorithm can empty your calendar overnight.

The direct booking deal

A direct booking happens on your own website, with your own payment page. The guest often pays less, you keep more, and the guest becomes yours: someone you can email next spring with first pick of the summer weeks.

~15.5%
Airbnb host-only fee, kept from each booking

14–17%
Typical combined guest and host fees across the major platforms

0%
Platform service fee on a booking made on your own site. You still pay card processing.

WHO THIS IS FOR

Hosts with one to twenty holiday lets, cottages, lodges, flats or serviced accommodation units who want to keep listing on the platforms while growing the share of bookings that come direct. You do not have to quit Airbnb. You just stop paying it for guests you already have.

01 THE MATHS OF THE 15%

Every repeat guest on a platform is a fee you did not need to pay

Start with your own numbers. The example below follows an illustrative host with three holiday lets and £90,000 a year in booking revenue, all of it through a platform charging the 15.5% host-only fee.

Worked example: what moving bookings direct is worth

ESTIMATE ONLY

DIRECT SHARE OF REVENUE	20%	35%	50%
Revenue booked direct	£18,000	£31,500	£45,000
Platform fee avoided (15.5%)	£2,790	£4,883	£6,975
Card processing (assume 2%)	-£360	-£630	-£900
Kept before software costs	£2,430	£4,253	£6,075

Assumptions: £90,000 annual booking revenue across 3 homes, 15.5% host-only fee, 2% card processing on direct bookings. Your processor's rate, your platform fee setup and your mix of bookings will differ. Subtract the cost of your website and tools to get your net figure.

The fee is only half of it

The bigger prize is what happens next year. A guest who booked direct is on your list. When they come back, there is no platform fee at all and no competing listing beside yours.

Where direct share comes from

- Returning guests who already know you
- Referrals from friends of past guests
- Search: people who find you on Google or an AI assistant
- Local partners: wedding venues, walking groups, employers

REALITY CHECK

Few hosts go from 0% to 50% direct in a season. A realistic first-year goal is to win back your returning guests and pick up a steady trickle from search. Then compound it.

01 WORKSHEET

Your fee leak calculator

Pull last year's payout reports from each platform. Ten minutes with this sheet tells you what direct bookings are worth to you.

Part A · What you paid last year

FROM YOUR PAYOUT REPORTS

A1	Total booking revenue across all platforms	£ _____
A2	Total host fees and commission you paid	£ _____
A3	Your effective fee rate (A2 ÷ A1 × 100)	_____ %
A4	Bookings from guests who had stayed before	_____
A5	Revenue from those returning guests	£ _____
A6	Fees paid on returning guests (A5 × A3)	£ _____

Part B · What direct could be worth

YOUR ESTIMATE

B1	Target direct share for next year	_____ %
B2	Revenue booked direct (A1 × B1)	£ _____
B3	Fees avoided (B2 × A3)	£ _____
B4	Card processing on direct (B2 × your rate)	£ _____
B5	Website and tools for the year	£ _____
B6	Net kept (B3 − B4 − B5)	£ _____

TIP

A6 is your quickest win. Those guests already chose you once. Chapter 06 shows how to invite them back direct, with consent.

SET THE TARGET

If you have no idea where to start, try 20% for year one. Then check the real figure every month on the scorecard in chapter 08.

02 OWN YOUR GUESTS

The direct booking flywheel

Direct bookings are not one tactic. They are a loop. Each stay feeds the next one, and every turn of the wheel costs less than the last.

What "owning" a guest means

You own a guest relationship when you can reach that person without asking a platform's permission. In practice that means three things:

1. A real contact detail, given to you by the guest, with permission to market to them where the law requires it.
2. A record of their stays: dates, home, group, pets, occasions, what they loved.
3. A reason to come back: first pick of dates, a returning-guest rate, a new home to try.

Start with the guests you have

Your fastest direct bookings come from the bottom of the funnel, not the top. Before you spend a penny on search, make sure every guest who stays with you from today has a clear, optional way to join your list.

THE ONE-SENTENCE STRATEGY

Use the platforms to meet guests. Use your own site and your own list to keep them.

Guest asset audit

5 MINUTES

1. Guests who stayed in the last 2 years _____
2. Of those, guests who booked direct _____
3. Guests you can legally email today _____
4. Guests who have stayed twice or more _____
5. Guests with a known occasion or pet _____
6. Gap between 1 and 3 (your opportunity) _____

02 THE RULES OF THE ROAD

Grow direct without breaking platform rules or the law

Platforms protect their fees. Regulators protect guests. Stay on the right side of both and direct bookings become a long game you can win.

GENERALLY FINE

- [ ] A memorable property name that guests can search for later
- [ ] A great stay that makes guests look you up
- [ ] Your own website, found through Google and AI search
- [ ] A sign-up for your list that the guest chooses freely, at your property or on your own site
- [ ] Emailing guests who booked direct and gave you their details

AVOID

- [ ] Putting your website, email or phone number in listing text or platform messages
- [ ] Asking a platform guest to cancel and rebook with you
- [ ] Marketing to masked or proxy emails a platform gives you
- [ ] Making list sign-up a condition of getting the door code
- [ ] Emailing or texting marketing without the right consent

UK checks before you take direct bookings

AREA	WHAT TO CHECK
Platform terms	Read the current host terms on off-platform communication for each platform you list on. They change.
Licensing and registration	Scotland requires a short-term let licence. Greater London limits whole-home short lets to 90 nights a year without planning permission. Check whether new registration schemes apply to you.
Visitor levies	Some areas, Edinburgh among them, are introducing visitor levies. If a levy applies, direct bookings mean you collect it yourself.
Data protection	UK GDPR applies to guest data you hold. Email and text marketing also falls under PECR. Chapter 06 covers consent.
Insurance and safety	Confirm your insurer covers direct bookings, and keep fire safety and gas certificates current.

General guidance only, not legal advice. Rules differ across England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland and change often. Check with your local authority and a professional adviser.

Anatomy of a direct booking page

A guest arriving at your site is asking one question: can I trust this enough to pay? Each block below answers part of that question.

1. A headline that sells the stay, not the building. "Your mountain hideaway, hot tub included" beats "Welcome to our cottage".
2. The facts in one line. Bedrooms, sleeps, and the distance to the thing people come for.
3. Great photos, first. Lead with the view or the hot tub, not the hallway.
4. A live calendar and a total price. Show the full price, fees included, before the payment page.
5. Reviews. Show your rating and recent reviews from real guests, with where they were left.
6. An area guide. Pubs, walks, beaches, the station. Guests and search engines both love this.
7. FAQs. Parking, pets, Wi-Fi speed, stairs, check-in time, cots and highchairs.
8. Clear policies. Cancellation, deposit, house rules, in plain English.
9. A human. Your name, a photo, a phone number or a fast enquiry form.
10. One button that says what it does. "Check your dates" or "Book direct", repeated down the page.

Score your current site

1 POINT EACH

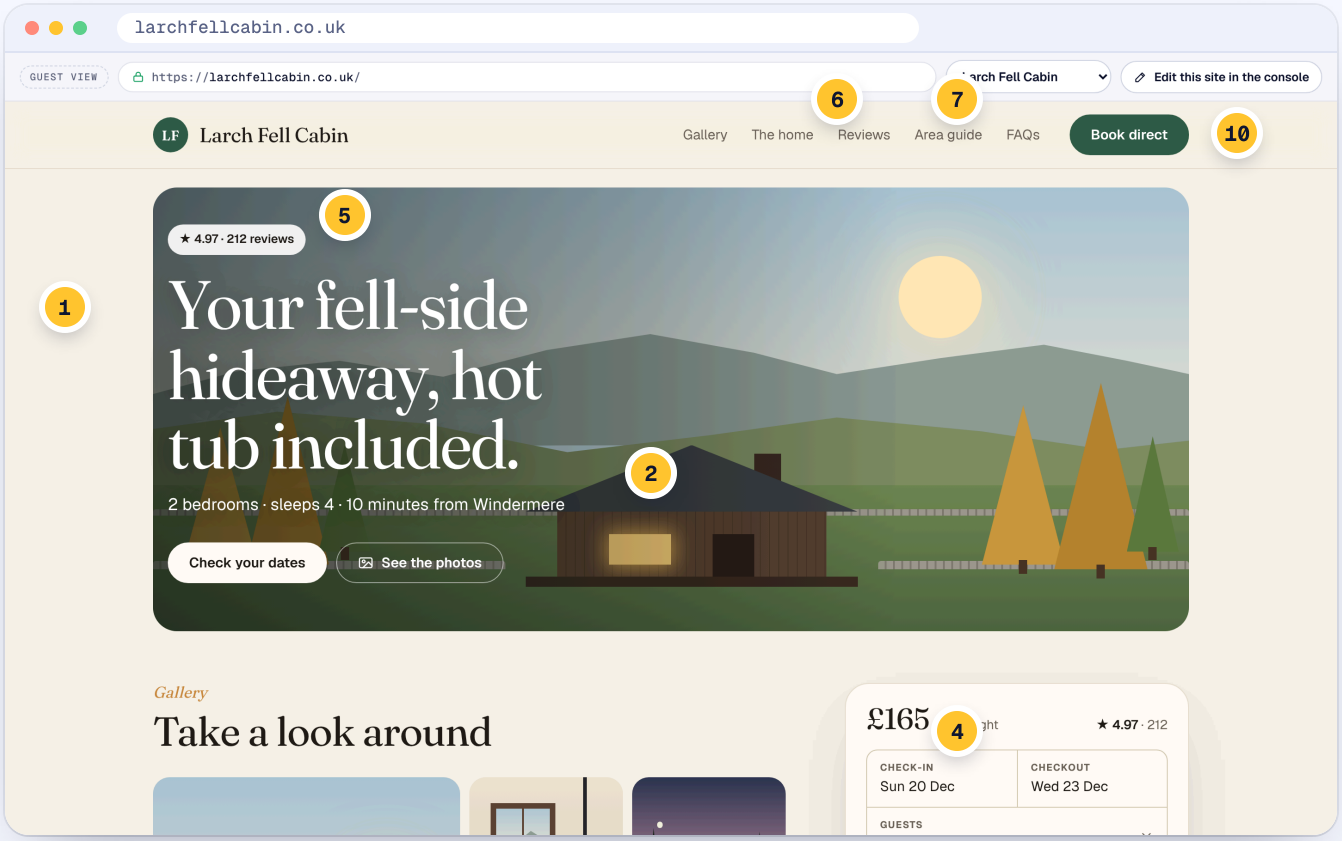

- [ ] Loads in a few seconds on a phone with average signal
- [ ] Total price visible before the payment page
- [ ] Calendar shows real availability
- [ ] At least 5 recent reviews on the page
- [ ] FAQ section answers 8 or more questions
- [ ] Area guide with real distances and times
- [ ] Cancellation and deposit terms on the booking page
- [ ] Secure checkout (padlock, known payment provider)
- [ ] Your own domain, not a sub-page of someone else's
- [ ] A "Book direct" button visible without scrolling

Score 8 or more: you are ready to drive traffic. Under 6: fix the site before you spend time on search.

03 PRICING DIRECT

Share the saving, keep the difference

Guests compare. If your site costs the same as the platform, many will book where they already have an account. Give them a visible reason to book direct, and still come out ahead.

Worked example: one night, two ways ESTIMATE ONLY

	ON THE PLATFORM	ON YOUR SITE
Guest pays per night	£180.00	£169.00
Platform host-only fee (15.5%)	-£27.90	£0.00
Card processing (assume 2%)	incl.	-£3.38
You keep per night	£152.10	£165.62

On a 3-night stay the guest saves £33 and you keep about £40 more. Figures assume a host-only fee setup and a 2% card rate. Your rates will differ.

5–8%
A common range for a direct discount that guests notice without giving the saving away

£11
Guest saving per night in the example above

£13.52
Extra you keep per night in the example above

Other ways to make direct the better deal

- Returning guest rate, sent privately to your list
- First pick of peak weeks before they go on the platforms
- Flexible extras: early check-in, late checkout, a dog at no fee
- Shorter minimum stays on direct bookings only
- A welcome hamper or local voucher for direct guests
- Gap nights offered to your list first (see chapter 06)

WATCH FOR

Some platforms have rules about rate parity or how you advertise lower prices elsewhere. Check your agreements before you publish a direct-only price.

04 PAYMENTS, DEPOSITS AND TRUST

Give guests every reason to feel safe paying you

On a platform, the brand does the reassuring. On your own site, you do. These are the things that turn a nervous first-time guest into a confirmed booking.

Taking payment

- [ ] Use a well-known payment provider with a secure, branded checkout
- [ ] Take a deposit at booking and the balance automatically before arrival
- [ ] Send an instant confirmation email with dates, address, total and terms
- [ ] Issue receipts that show what was paid and when

Protecting the home

- [ ] Use a card pre-authorisation hold as a damage deposit, released after checkout
- [ ] Ask guests to accept your house rules and rental terms at checkout
- [ ] Verify identity at online check-in for direct bookings
- [ ] Confirm your insurer covers direct bookings and what evidence they need

Clear policies

- [ ] A cancellation policy written in plain English, with dates
- [ ] What the deposit covers and when it is released
- [ ] Pets, parties, smoking, maximum guests
- [ ] What happens if the guest needs to change dates

Signs of a real business

- [ ] Your own domain and a matching email address
- [ ] A named host with a photo and a short story
- [ ] Reviews with dates and where they were left
- [ ] A privacy notice that says how you use guest data

TEMPLATE · CANCELLATION POLICY — EDIT THE DATES TO SUIT YOU

Cancel up to `30 days` before arrival for a full refund, less any card fees we cannot recover. Cancel between `30` and `14 days` before arrival and we refund `50%`. Within `14 days` we refund only if we rebook the nights. If you need to move your dates, ask us first: we will always try to help.

05 GET FOUND

Five moves that bring strangers to your site

Guests now search two ways: they type into Google, and they ask an AI assistant like ChatGPT, Gemini or Perplexity. Both reward the same thing. Clear, specific, local pages that answer real questions.

Google ChatGPT Gemini Perplexity

1. One page per home, on your own domain. Title it with what guests search: "Dog-friendly cottage with sea views, St Ives" rather than "Seaview".
2. Local pages around what guests come for. "Walks from the door in Borrowdale", "Edinburgh Festival stays near the Royal Mile", "Cotswolds pubs within walking distance". One question, one page.
3. FAQs written as answers. Start each answer with the direct answer in one sentence, then the detail. AI assistants lift these almost word for word.
4. Reviews in more than one place. Platform reviews, plus reviews on your own site and on listings guests and AI tools can see. Never buy or incentivise them.
5. Consistent facts everywhere. Same name, same address area, same bedrooms and sleeps on your site, platforms and every directory.

Try this today

10 MINUTES

Open ChatGPT, Gemini and Google. Ask each the question a guest would ask about your area:

"Dog-friendly cottage with a hot tub near Keswick?"

Note which homes they recommend and why. That is your competition, and your to-do list.

06 TURN EVERY STAY INTO A REPEAT GUEST

Build the list, then send four messages

Your guest list is the asset that keeps paying. Build it with consent and use it gently. In the UK, marketing emails and texts fall under UK GDPR and PECR.

DIRECT GUESTS: SOFT OPT-IN

If a guest booked with you directly, you can usually email them about similar stays under the PECR "soft opt-in", as long as you gave them a clear chance to opt out when you collected their details, and in every message after.

PLATFORM GUESTS: ASK FIRST

Guests who booked through a platform bought from the platform. Get their clear, freely given consent before you market to them, for example with an optional sign-up at the property. Keep it separate from check-in access.

The four core messages

AT BOOKING

Welcome

Confirm the details, set expectations, link to online check-in.

CHECKOUT DAY

Thank you

Thank them, ask for a review, mention the returning guest rate.

ABOUT 10 TO 11 MONTHS LATER

"Your week is open again"

The single most effective repeat message: offer the same week next year before anyone else.

QUIET SEASON

Off-season and gap nights

Offer short-notice gaps and quiet months to your list first.

TEMPLATE · ANNIVERSARY EMAIL — SEND 10 TO 11 MONTHS AFTER THE STAY

Subject: Your week at `{home}` is open again

Hi `{first_name}`, this time last year you were at `{home}`. The same week, `{dates}`, is free for next year and we wanted you to have first pick. Book on our site with code `{code}` for `{offer}`. We hold it for returning guests until `{date}`.

07 YOUR 30-DAY LAUNCH PLAN

Weeks 1 and 2: build the base

Block out an hour a day. By day 30 you will have a live booking site, a list sign-up at every stay and your first campaign scheduled.

Week 1 · Foundations

DAYS 1-7

- [ ] Fill in the fee leak calculator (page 05)
- [ ] Choose and buy a domain. Short, spellable, your property name if free
- [ ] Gather your 20 best photos and your best 10 reviews
- [ ] Write your headline, one-line facts and a 150-word description
- [ ] Decide your direct price rule (for example 6% below platform)
- [ ] Write your cancellation, deposit and house rules
- [ ] Check licensing, levies and insurance for direct bookings

Week 2 · The site

- [ ] Build the home page using the anatomy on page 08
- [ ] Connect payments: deposit, balance and damage hold
- [ ] Publish an area guide with real distances and times
- [ ] Write 12 FAQs, each starting with a one-sentence answer
- [ ] Add a privacy notice covering guest data and marketing
- [ ] Make a test booking on a phone, start to finish
- [ ] Score the site with the checklist on page 08

IF YOU ARE SHORT ON TIME

Do the bold three: domain, a booking page with payments, and a list sign-up at the property. Everything else can follow in month two.

Notes

07 YOUR 30-DAY LAUNCH PLAN

Weeks 3 and 4: switch on the flywheel

Week 3 · Get found

DAYS 15-21

- [ ] Verify your site in Google Search Console and submit a sitemap
- [ ] Publish one local page around your strongest search phrase
- [ ] Add structured data for the home and FAQs
- [ ] Make name, address area and facts match on every listing
- [ ] Ask your 5 favourite past direct guests for a review on your site
- [ ] Run the AI check on page 12 and write down the results

Week 4 · Keep guests

DAYS 22-30

- [ ] Add an optional list sign-up at the property (QR card or welcome book)
- [ ] Set up the welcome and thank-you messages
- [ ] Import past direct guests who can be emailed under soft opt-in
- [ ] Schedule your first anniversary email
- [ ] Load gap nights for the next 60 days into a list-first offer
- [ ] Start the monthly scorecard (page 16)

Launch day checklist

DAY 30

- [ ] Test booking refunded and removed
- [ ] Calendar matches your platform calendars
- [ ] Confirmation and check-in emails arrive, not in spam
- [ ] Prices and fees match what the guest sees at checkout
- [ ] Unsubscribe link works
- [ ] Phone layout checked on an older handset
- [ ] Your email signature links to your site
- [ ] Tell your list: "We now take bookings direct"

AFTER DAY 30

Publish one new local page a month, send one campaign a month, and review the scorecard on the first Monday of each month. That rhythm is the whole game.

08 THE NUMBERS TO TRACK

Five numbers, once a month

Ignore vanity metrics. These five tell you if the flywheel is turning.

METRIC	HOW TO WORK IT OUT	WHAT IT TELLS YOU
Direct revenue	Revenue from stays booked on your own site	The headline. Is direct growing?
Fees saved	Direct revenue × your platform fee rate, minus card processing	What direct is worth in pounds
Site conversion	Direct bookings ÷ site visitors	Is the site doing its job once people arrive?
List size	Guests you can legally email, added this month	Fuel for future repeat bookings
Returning guests	Stays from guests who stayed before ÷ all stays	Are guests coming back?

Monthly scorecard

MONTH	DIRECT REVENUE	FEES SAVED	CONVERSION	LIST ADDED	RETURNING
_____	£ ____	£ ____	____ %	____	____ %
_____	£ ____	£ ____	____ %	____	____ %
_____	£ ____	£ ____	____ %	____	____ %
_____	£ ____	£ ____	____ %	____	____ %
_____	£ ____	£ ____	____ %	____	____ %

HOW TO READ IT

Low conversion with healthy visitors means fix the site (chapter 03). Few visitors means work on search (chapter 05). Big list but few repeats means your messages need work (chapter 06).

ILLUSTRATIVE EXAMPLE

Example host: Ellie, three cottages in Cornwall

Ellie is not a real customer. She is a composite we use to show how the playbook adds up over a year. All figures are estimates.

3	£96k	5%	30%
Cottages near Padstow, sleeping 4 to 6	Annual booking revenue	Direct share at the start	Direct share target by month 12

MONTHS 1 TO 2

Site live, sign-up card in each cottage

Ellie launches one site for all three cottages, prices direct 6% below the platforms, and adds a QR sign-up to each welcome book.

MONTHS 3 TO 5

Local pages start to rank

Pages on dog-friendly beaches, the Camel Trail and surf lessons begin to bring search visitors. Her FAQ answers start appearing in AI answers for two of her questions.

MONTHS 6 TO 9

The list pays off

Anniversary emails go out to the guests who joined in spring. Gap night offers fill several short breaks in the shoulder season.

MONTHS 10 TO 12

Next summer books early

Returning guests get first pick of next year's peak weeks before they open on the platforms.

If Ellie reaches 30% direct

ESTIMATE ONLY

Direct revenue (30% of £96,000)	£28,800
Platform fees avoided at 15.5%	£4,464
Card processing at 2%	-£576
Bookingbooster Growth, 12 months at £119	-£1,428
Estimated net kept in year one	£2,460

Year two is where it compounds: the list keeps growing and returning guests book direct with no new marketing cost.

BEFORE YOU START

Eight mistakes that stall direct bookings

1. Hiding the total price
Surprise fees at the last step kill bookings. Show the full price, cleaning included, as early as you can.

2. Charging more than the platform
Guests check. Make direct visibly the better deal, even by a few pounds a night.

3. A site that only works on a laptop
Most guests will see your site first on a phone. Test every step on one.

4. Breaking platform rules to get emails
It can cost you your listing. Grow your list at the property and on your own site instead.

5. Building a list, then never using it
A list that hears from you once a year forgets you. Aim for a useful message every month or two.

6. Discounting everything
Use targeted offers: gap nights, returning guests, quiet weeks. Do not train guests to wait for a sale.

7. Generic copy
"Cosy cottage in a great location" is invisible to search and to AI. Name the beach, the walk, the pub, the minutes.

8. Not measuring
If you do not know your direct revenue, returning guests and fees saved, you cannot tell what is working. Fill in the scorecard monthly.
